Humanities Beyond Borders:

Culture, Identity and Global Dialogues

Introductory Address

& Presentation: “Migration as Infrastructure”

Dr. Eng. Vimbai Pachawo, CEng MIAgrE
Ramotitânico Consultancy · Braga, Portugal

Organised by Academia-Humanities Organization in collaboration with Ramotitânico (Europe)

Welcome: Bem Vindo

- Good morning to our distinguished guests, keynote speakers, respected scholars, researchers, students, and participants joining us from around the world.
- On behalf of Ramotitânico Braga, our partner Academia-Humanities Organization, and the entire organising committee, it is my great pleasure to welcome you to this International Conference.
- I am Dr. Eng. Vimbai Pachawo, representing Ramotitânico, one of the joint organisers

Humanities Beyond Borders: Culture, Identity and Global Dialogues Conference
· JUNE 2026

With gratitude.

A conference is, before anything else, a platform, and platforms are built by people. My sincere thanks to the Academia–Humanities Organization and to our partners at Ramotitânico for creating a space that connects scholars across continents.

- Our keynote speakers, for setting the intellectual horizon
- Our presenters, for the rigour and courage of their work
- Session chairs, reviewers and the organising committee
- Every participant joining us, in the room and online

Where dialogue meets discipline.

Whether our work sits in literature, language, education, engineering, or sustainable development, meaningful progress begins with dialogue. Today's conference reminds us that solving global challenges requires both scientific innovation and human understanding, the two halves of the same conversation.

- Literature & language · meaning, memory, voice
- Education · pedagogy, access, recognition
- Engineering & sustainability · systems that serve people
- Humanities · the thread that ties them together

Lean in. Ask. Connect.

As we begin these two days, I encourage everyone to participate actively, ask thoughtful questions, and embrace opportunities to build new collaborations and friendships that extend well beyond this conference. The most valuable papers often start in the coffee break.

- Ask the question you almost didn't ask
- Introduce yourself to someone outside your field
- Exchange contacts, turn a panel into a partnership
- Carry the conversation home, and keep it going

From welcome to practice.

With those words of welcome, allow me to step from the podium into the paper. What follows is one small, practical answer to the question this conference is asking: how does a humanities project actually look on the ground, in a Portuguese community, run by and for the diaspora that lives in it?

- A short walk through Ramotitânico's four pillars
- Migration treated as infrastructure, not as a problem
- Logistics, food, education and shelter as cultural translation

Who we are

A neighbourhood firm with a national licence

Ramotitânico is a Portuguese company built around one stubborn idea: the people who arrive here with the least paperwork often carry the most useful skills. We turn that skill into licensed, taxable, dignified work.

- Registered in Portugal · operating across the North
- Four service pillars, one logistical spine
- Run by, and for, the Afro-Asian-Lusophone diaspora

Pillar 1: Mobility

Motorbikes for the people the platforms forget.

We acquire and rent motorbikes, e-bikes and cycles to immigrants who want to ride for Uber Eats, Glovo and Bolt Food while their residency paperwork is still in motion. A bike under them today is a tax record.

- Fully insured · fleet-managed · always ready
- Daily · weekly · monthly hire options
- Pathway from rider → owner → small fleet operator

Pillar 2: Food Sovereignty

Afro-Asian-Halal mobile butchery.

A taste of home is not a luxury, it is identity. Our mobile butchery brings the cuts that Portuguese supermarkets quietly retired: hard chicken, goat, mutton, beef offals, oxtail, cow feet; halal-certified, delivered to the neighbourhoods that ask for them.

- Goat · mutton · beef · poultry · offals · feet · tripe · heads
- Ethical sourcing · refrigerated transport · trusted handling
- Mobile route serving Braga, Porto and the Minho corridor

Pillar 3: Higher Education Support

Enrolment, not just enquiries

We walk potential students and parents through the maze: course selection, qualification recognition, translations, legalisation of documents, visas, AIMA appointments and settlement. The goal is a registered student on day one, not a brochure.

- Higher-education enrolment & equivalence
- Translation · document legalisation · AIMA support
- Family advisory for relocating households

Pillar 4: Real Estate and Construction

Property, vehicles, and the buildings in between

We buy, sell and lease real estate; we run civil construction. Together these turn rent paid into equity built for the same families our other services already serve.

- Real estate · purchase, sale, leasing
- Civil construction · mini-markets and restaurants

Our vision

Migration is not a problem to be managed.
It is a culture to be resourced.

Every motorbike rented, every kilo of meat sold, every enrolment confirmed is a small act of cultural translation; a humanities practice carried out in workshops, kitchens and waiting rooms.

Building partnerships across the table, not just across the border.

Shared values with this conference

The same values that guide our work every day

- Inclusion
- Cultural understanding
- Dignity
- Dialogue
- Sustainable development

The people we work with every day

- At first glance, some may wonder why a company in mobility, higher-education consultancy, Afro-Asian-Halal food, real estate and construction would help organise a humanities conference.
- The answer is simple: our daily work is the humanities in practice.
- Service is the surface; belonging is the substance
- Migrants, students, families, entrepreneurs and communities from many cultural backgrounds.
- Our business is not only about providing services; it is about helping people build lives, preserve identity, create opportunity, and belong.

Practice as theory; logistics as cultural translation.

Our four pillars speak directly to the conference themes: migration and diaspora, cultural memory and identity, language and power, and the cultural contact zone. Every dispatch slip, every halal cut, every legalised diploma is a small humanities artefact produced under real economic constraints.

- Migration & Diaspora: paperwork, mobility, work
- Cultural Memory & Identity: food, language, home
- Language, Power & Representation: translation, advocacy
- Cultural Contact Zone: Afro-Asian-Lusophone Braga

From service to story

- Helping a student enrol at a Portuguese university
- Providing a delivery rider with a motorbike to earn an income
- Supplying culturally appropriate halal food
- Helping families purchase homes and build long-term equity
- In each of these, we participate in something larger than commerce, we participate in the human story.
